Tracy Morgan apologizes for anti-gay jokes

Reuters

Comedian and “30 Rock” star Tracy Morgan on Friday apologized for making a series of anti-gay remarks, including a reported joke that he would stab his own son to death if he spoke in a “gay voice.”

Morgan’s apology followed criticism of his stand-up act in Nashville last week, in which he was also quoted as having taken gays to task for “whining about something as insignificant as bullying.”

“I want to apologize to my fans and the gay & lesbian community for my choice of words at my recent stand-up act in Nashville,” Morgan said in a statement.

“I’m not a hateful person and don’t condone any kind of violence against others. While I am an equal opportunity jokester, and my friends know what is in my heart, even in a comedy club this clearly went too far and was not funny in any context,” he added.

Morgan’s remarks at the June 3 performance in Nashville, Tenn., were reported by the gay campaign group Truth Wins Out, and other members of the audience.

Morgan, 42, who has three children, also claimed that being gay is a choice and something that kids learn from the media, according to the reports.

“Jokes that make light of violence directed at gay and lesbian youth aren’t only offensive, they put our kids in harm’s way,” said Jarrett Barrios, president of the gay and lesbian campaign group GLAAD.

“Tracy Morgan must not only apologize, but assure us that this won’t happen again and send a clear message to Americans that anti-gay violence is no joke,” Barrios said Friday.

Nashville’s Ryman Auditorium issued a statement Thursday saying it “regrets that people were offended by statements made by Tracy Morgan during his June 3 appearance.”

“The Ryman does not control the content presented by people appearing on its stage, nor does it endorse any of the views of, or statements made by, such persons,” the statement added.

More power to the buyers

Can social media be too social? I don't think so. And a new service is proving my point.

Recently, I took a close look at Zaarly, which, according to its website, "helps you buy and sell with people around you." Knowing there are alternatives, such as tweeting requests and posting in Facebook's Marketplace or Craigslist, I set out to discover what sets Zaarly apart. It took only a few minutes for me to realize what makes it buzzworthy: You don't list anything to sell.

The entire process is hyperlocal and buyer-driven. On one recent request, someone wanted three hours of yardwork and was willing to pay $55 for it. Want to help and make $55? Click on the "I've Got That" button to connect with the poster.

"You put it on the table and the local market dictates if it's a reasonable request. The power is placed back in the buyer's hands," said Tim McDonald, Chicago Dream Team captain for Zaarly. And while the service has a funny name—it comes from an Old World Moroccan bazaar, where 2,000 years ago buyers dictated the market price, McDonald said—there's seemingly endless potential.

Last week, someone posted that he or she was in need of an AT&T 32GB iPad 2 for a gift and would pay $830 for it. Someone else was willing to pay $50 for Web design services. We always need something, right? Maybe you are traveling and need a place to stay—someone using Zaarly could have a room to rent or a tent in a backyard.

One of Zaarly's founders, Bo Fishback, is 6 feet 8 inches tall. He says in a video that the idea for the service started when he used to offer people $50 to switch seats on planes so he could stretch out a little in the emergency exit row.

He said people were almost always willing to do it, but he got to thinking about how he could create a cool, impromptu marketplace that didn't feel awkward.

The requests can be sorted by location, time or price, and the site is easy to navigate.

You can go to zaarly.com on your computer or smartphone, or download the iPhone app. McDonald said an Android app should be available soon.

I've never used Craigslist because I don't feel comfortable with how the transactions work using that site. While I haven't made or responded to a request yet on Zaarly, I'd be more than willing to give it a try.

What about you? Would you negotiate a transaction using a site such as Zaarly? Tweet me, poke me—just tell me. It could end up being a great deal.

Mayor Emanuel (right) and Police Superintendent Garry McCarthy announce a plan Sunday to shift 150 more officers to patrol the city's streets. CHUCK BERMAN/TRIBUNE

Police overhaul

Emanuel shifting another 150 officers to patrol city streets

Chicago Tribune

Last month, Mayor Emanuel announced his plan to reshuffle 500 Chicago police officers primarily to beat-patrol duties as part of his campaign pledge to send more officers to the streets.

On Sunday, Emanuel told several reporters and dozens of patrons huddled at the Illinois Centennial Monument in Logan Square that he would continue to beef up the city's police districts with the addition of 150 beat cops.

"These officers are going to be the backbone of our Police Department, working on the beat," Emanuel said.

The redeployment of the first 500 officers primarily from two specialized units, the Mobile Strike Force and Targeted Response Unit, represented a significant shift in policy for the department. Under former Superintendent Jody Weis, those units, which parachuted into parts of the city experiencing spikes in violent crime, were beefed up by officers pulled from district beat patrols.

But the redeployment strategy under Superintendent Garry McCarthy is doing the exact opposite. McCarthy's strategy stresses the need for resources to be in the hands of district commanders with the expectation that they will be able to use them as effective crime-fighting tools within the neighborhoods they oversee.

"I've publicly stated that the single most important thing that we can do is get cops on the street, put them in the hands of the (district) commanders and hold the commanders accountable," McCarthy said at Sunday's news conference.

When the other 500 officers were redeployed last month, they were assigned mainly to three-month stints in the most dangerous districts on the South and West sides.

The 150 additional officers moving to the streets will come from administrative posts, including from within McCarthy's office. Emanuel's office said those officers will be assigned permanently to beat patrols in the following districts starting Sunday: Wentworth, Deering, Ogden, Monroe, Wood, Albany Park, Near North, Belmont, Lincoln, Prairie, Morgan Park, Town Hall, Rogers Park, Grand Central and Shakespeare, which covers Logan Square.

"Every part of the city will be covered," Emanuel said.

The shifting of 650 officers this early into Emanuel's term is part of his campaign to add 1,000 cops to the streets by moving experienced personnel from desk jobs and hiring officers with money now earmarked for economic development in special tax districts. Emanuel couldn't say when more cops will be shifted to the beat, but he said he hasn't lost sight of his goal of 1,000.

"We have done 650 officers deployed in our neighborhoods," Emanuel said. "We are not done going through the rest of the department."

Officials enter felony charge in '[bleep] the mayor' case

Chicago Tribune

Prosecutors have stiffened the charge against a man who was arrested after he shouted obscenities at former Mayor Richard M. Daley as he left City Hall on his last day in office.

Janusz Kopycinski, 30, faces a felony charge stemming from a scuffle May 13 outside City Hall that was set off when Kopycinski allegedly shouted "[Bleep] the mayor" and spat at police and spectators.

Kopycinski was taken into police custody Friday at a court hearing for a misdemeanor charge stemming from that arrest. Prosecutors, noting Kopycinski had prior convictions for assaulting police, entered a stiffer charge of aggravated battery of a police officer.

Kopycinski allegedly shoved an officer in front of a moving bus as he struggled with police as Daley was leaving City Hall. The officer was grazed by the bus and suffered a separated shoulder, Assistant State's Attorney William Hall said. A second officer suffered minor injuries, Chicago police spokesman John Mirabelli said.

A family member reached Sunday afternoon said Kopycinski suffers from bipolar disorder and had no particular problem with the former mayor.

Tall and slim, with long hair pulled behind his ears, Kopycinski stood silent Sunday in Cook County Bond Court. Judge Israel Desierto set bail at $100,000.

According to court records, Kopycinski was found guilty but mentally ill for attacking a police officer in 2007 and was ordered to undergo inpatient mental health counseling.

He had been convicted of resisting arrest in 2007, and in 2005 he pleaded guilty to aggravated assault of a peace officer, according to records.

At least it's a night job— LSD resurfacing begins

Chicago Tribune

Repairs on a section of North Lake Shore Drive are moving from patching the base to repaving the surface this week, and the bottom line for drivers is that lane closings—and traffic delays—will continue, officials said.

The resurfacing work, between Belmont Avenue and Irving Park Road, was scheduled to begin Sunday night, according to the Chicago Department of Transportation.

This week's schedule calls for northbound lane closures from 8 p.m.-3 a.m. and southbound lane closures from 11 p.m.-6 a.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, according to CDOT.

Northbound lane closures were to run from 7 p.m.-2 a.m. and southbound lane closures in effect from 9 p.m.-5 a.m. through Monday morning and again Thursday and Friday.

"CDOT is very cognizant of the impact of this work, and we're doing all we can to minimize that impact and work as quickly as possible," department spokesman Brian Steele said.

BLUES FESTIVAL HITS CHICAGO

Magic Slim

BRENT LEWIS/TRIBUNE

At times during the first two days of the free, weekend-long Blues Festival in Grant Park, it seemed as if the blues itself is in danger of receding into the past, particularly given the absence of three revered musicians who had been scheduled to appear. Fortunately, there still were plenty of performances that showed that while time severely has thinned the blues' ranks, the music remains vital. # New Giffords photos

HOUSTON A smiling U.S. Rep. Gabrielle Giffords (D-Ariz.) appeared in photos released on the Internet on Sunday, the first made public since she was shot in the head in January.

At the same time, preparations were being made for her to be discharged from a rehabilitation center in Houston "really soon" to continue therapy as an outpatient, said her spokesman, C.J. Karamargin.

He said her abilities improve weekly and that discussions were under way for Giffords to resume more active duties with her congressional office.

Giffords was shot at close range by a gunman who opened fire at her and others

Jan. 8 outside a supermarket in Tucson.

The photos were taken May 17 at the Institute for Rehabilitation and Research, Memorial Hermann-Texas Medical Center in Houston the day before Giffords underwent cranioplasty surgery to replace part of her skull.

In the pictures, Giffords is seen with very short hair, wearing glasses and a burgundy shirt with a colorful collar. A day earlier her astronaut husband, Mark Kelly, had commanded the space shuttle Endeavour on its final trip to the international space station.

"These pictures show a resilient woman who has made amazing progress," Karamargin said. "She had just seen her husband go into space on a rocket. Who wouldn't be smiling?"

Karamargin said Giffords and Kelly wanted to release the photos in response to the tremendous public interest in her recovery and her appearance.

"Any photographer in the country would have loved the opportunity to take these pictures, and I was delighted to be asked," photographer P.K. Weis of southwestphoto bank.com said in a statement released with the photos.

Weis, who has known Giffords for more than a decade, said the congresswoman's mother, a close friend and a member of her staff were present for the photo shoot.

THE MAVS & MAVS-NOTS

DALLAS TAKES DOWN MIAMI'S BIG THREE—AND AMERICA CHEERS

On Sunday night, the Dallas Mavericks had a chance to do what seemingly all of America wanted them to do: Beat the Miami Heat to win the NBA title. Actually, winning the title was secondary to beating the Heat, as the Bulls could not do it themselves. How were we feeling during the course of the game? Let's see. REDEYE

FIRST QUARTER

HOT DAMN! Mario Chalmers kicks things off with two straight airballs on Miami's first possession.
OH DAMN! But LeBron James follows it up with a 3-pointer to draw first blood for the Heat.
HOT DAMN! J.J. Barea gives the Mavericks their first lead with a jumper in the lane with 8:46 left in the first quarter.
OH DAMN! Chalmers takes the lead right back for Miami with a drive right past Dirk Nowitzki to the hoop for an easy layup.
HOT DAMN! Seldom-used Brian Cardinal drains a 3-pointer with 3:32 left in the first to give Dallas a 23-22 lead after the Heat had jumped out to a nine-point lead just three minutes earlier.
OH DAMN! And the Heat take the lead back with a Udonis Haslem dunk off a great feed from Dwyane Wade.
SCORE: Dallas 32, Miami 27

SECOND QUARTER

HOT DAMN! Back-to-back 3-pointers from DeShawn Stevenson give the Mavs a 12-point lead at 9:42 in the second.
OH DAMN! An Eddie House 3-pointer is part of 14 straight unanswered Heat points to give Miami a two-point lead with 6:25 left in the half.
HOT DAMN! Dallas is living behind the 3-point line tonight, and Jason Terry hits back-to-back shots from long range to pump some life back into the Mavs, putting them up 51-49.
OH DAMN! Dallas star Dirk Nowitzki finishes the half 1-for-12 with three points. They'll need him to be hot at the end.
SCORE: Dallas 53, Miami 51

LeBron James hangs his head during the third quarter of Game 6. MCT

THIRD QUARTER

HOT DAMN! Dallas opens the second half on a 10-5 run, including four points from Nowitzki, who looks more comfortable. That gives them a 63-56 lead.
HOT DAMN! Miami usually closes quarters on a surge, but Dallas is the one doing the surging at the end of the third, turning a three-point lead with 2:31 left in the quarter into a nine-point lead after an Ian Mahinmi buzzer-beating jumper.
SCORE: Dallas 81, Miami 72

FOURTH QUARTER

HOT DAMN! Barea, the smallest player on the court, drives a defenseless lane for an easy layup, establishing Dallas' biggest lead of the night at 12. Chill the champagne, folks.
HOT DAMN! Nursing an eight point lead with 2:50 left, Terry misses a 3-pointer but Shawn Marion gets the rebound. Nowitzki winds up with the ball and nails a baseline jumper to give Dallas a 10-point lead with 2:27 left. And it's all but over ...
FINAL SCORE: Dallas 105, Miami 95

| 1 The Cubs have been on the road so long ...                                   | ... the team bus driver used a back tattoo as his North Star to find the way home.                         | ... that Dave Matthews Band are opening up for them this July. Get it? Because they tour a lot. | ... they've forgotten how to play baseball at home. As if they ever knew.            | ... Cubs fans might miss them enough to suffer through a game at Wrigley.                  | ... and I'm thinking "Back so soon?" I'd give several Cubs a permanent road trip.                      |
| 2 Why can't Ozzie Guillen stop himself from trashing Wrigley Field?            | I mean, can it really be worse for Cubs morale than what Quade and Zambrano are saying?                    | Better question: Why do people keep acting like he's not right about Wrigley being a dump?      | Trips to men's room urinal troughs make him face his, um, shortcomings.              | Like a boy teasing a girl on the playground, he mocks that which he most loves.            | It was actually the nicest thing a Guillen has said all week.  |
| 3 How did you celebrate Sunday's 20th anniversary of the 1991 Bulls NBA title? | I strapped on the Horace Grant goggles. Now everything looks 5x bigger. Might lend them to the girlfriend. | By doing what I always do: hating on the L.A. Lakers.   | The same way MJ first celebrated it: by hugging the Larry O'Brien trophy and crying. | Showed some half-wit teens YouTube clips of Jordan until they accepted he's the G.O.A.T.   | By not tipping my waitress and saying LeBron is the best ever. Oh wait, that's how Scottie celebrated. |
| 4 LeBron James and Dwyane Wade mocking someone's sickness is like ...          | ... the clearest sign yet why no one outside of Miami wants them to win a championship.                    | ... two jagbags in high school picking on the weird foreign kid. Not cool, guys.                | ... Kim Kardashian mocking my lack of talent.  | ... those dudes in the commercials messing with sassaquatch. Unwise.                       | ... Anthony Weiner teaching an ethics class.   |
| 5 On your scale, how would you rate this year's NBA Finals?                    | Eight out of 10. Hate the player, respect his game.  | If Dallas wins, 7. If the Heat win, -120,000.   | So far it's rating 4 stars on my "Miami Heat schadenfreude" scale.                   | My scale always reads about 10 pounds ... er ... points off, so it only ranks a -5 for me. | Depends. How much does a whiney bunch weigh?   |

In five weeks, the White Sox have chopped into their Central Division deficit by 7½ games and taken about 70½ years off the lives of their fans.

Getting within 3½ games of Cleveland and Detroit hasn't been easy, and that includes Sunday's 5-4 win over the A's.

It took a questionable final out for Sergio Santos to extricate himself from another mess and send the Sox into an off day feeling better about themselves than perhaps they should.

"It was one of those things you could see going in the wrong direction ... but we pulled it out, and let's not question it," team captain Paul Konerko said.

Santos allowed one run and had the tying and lead runs on second and first when Coco Crisp appeared to beat the throw on a ground-er to third. But while A's manager Bob Melvin

I don't want to alarm anybody, so you best sit down for this. Cubs pitcher Kerry Wood might be going on the disabled list with a blister on his right index finger. ### LEMME BREAK IT DOWN his team when they were rooting for him, Chris Bosh and LeBron James in the Olympics in 2008. Let's see. What's different? They were playing for the U.S. then and are playing for Miami now. And LeBron turned into a d-bag, Bosh admitted he'd rather "chill" than practice, Wade mocked people who rooted against Miami and ... that enough for ya?

Heat guard and Chicago native Dwyane Wade doesn't understand why America hates

So, the NBA Finals meme of the moment is LeBron James possibly having six toes on his right foot based on a fuzzy picture from Getty Images. Big deal. Now, if he played

Whitney Cummings

Lately to presently

Just for Laughs Festival

A funny thing happened to this ‘Chelsea Lately’ comedian on the way to modeling

TBS Just for Laughs: Whitney Cummings
Where: The Vic Theatre
When: 7:30 p.m. Thursday
Tickets: $32.50

By Scott Bolohan

Yes, you have seen her somewhere before. Yes, Whitney Cummings is that one “girl comic” you’ve seen on that one show. Get familiar—and fast—with Cummings, who is behind two majorly anticipated sitcoms on their way to network TV in the fall. The self-proclaimed “loud” lady broke through after appearing as a regular panelist on E’s “Chelsea Lately” and performing at several Comedy Central roasts. Now she’s gearing up for the debuts of a comedy on NBC, “Whitney,” which stars Cummings and Chris D’Elia (“Glory Days”) as a happily unmarried couple; and another on CBS that she created and co-produced, “2 Broke Girls,” starring Kat Dennings and Beth Behrs as two waitresses in a Brooklyn restaurant. As part of the TBS Just for Laughs comedy festival this week, Cummings brings her stand-up routine that mostly zeroes in on porn, sex and relationships to The Vic Theatre on Thursday. She called us from Nashville, Tenn., after a tour stop to discuss her Chicago encounter with Grant Achatz, her new sitcoms and the things that haunt her.

So last year you did this Web series for Lexus where you drove around interviewing Chicagoans. What did you learn about the city and the people here?
It was a blast. I learned that Chicago has amazing food. I interviewed Grant [Achatz], and I learned all about the food scene from him. Plus, Grant is [bleeping] hot, and I’m in love with him and embarrassed myself in front of him. He gave me this weird thing to eat, and I spilled it on the floor in front of him. So that’s not moving forward.

I also interviewed this girl who was at Second City, and I learned a lot about Second City and the comedy scene in Chicago that I didn’t know. I kind of got to see how it works and understand why everyone who comes out of there is so good and goes to “SNL” and everything.

So you originally set out on this path of modeling, going to University of Pennsylvania and doing both journalism and acting. Why did stand-up end up being your calling?
As a comedian you are basically a whiner. You complain about things that annoy you, and comedians are obsessed with injustice but want to be completely free in the way we nag people about it. So stand-up seemed kind of like the perfect thing. It’s really the only thing that’s ever really satisfied my neurosis and insatiable pit of angst.

Just for Laughs schedule

With more than 70 stand-up shows lined up at comedy shacks and theaters across town, TBS’ Just for Laughs Festival is back in Chicago for its third year. The best acts inevitably overlap one another, but with the right game plan, you can squeeze in a few hours of chuckles every night this week with our don’t-miss picks.

TUESDAY
OK, so it’s not really that much of a secret show, but you still can catch some of Chicago’s best comics each performing extended sets at the funny fest’s kickoff.
Where: Beat Kitchen, 2100 W. Belmont Ave. 773-281-4444
Tickets: $5, available night of the show
Also: Tim Minchin at Lincoln Hall (2424 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-525-2501), 10 p.m., $25

WEDNESDAY
‘The Anti-Social Network,’ 7:30 p.m.
With “Insomniac” Dave Attell, “SNL” alum Jim Breuer, radio regular Bill Burr and creator Jim Norton under one roof, you’re bound to get at least one or two belly laughs out of it.
Where: The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St. 312-462-6300
Tickets: $42.50-$62.50
Also: Jo Koy at The Vic Theatre (3145 N. Sheffield Ave. 773-472-0449), 7:30 p.m., $32.50
‘New Faces of Chicago’ at Lincoln Hall (2424 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-525-2501), 7:30 p.m., $15

Dave Attell

Also: Seth Meyers at The Vic Theatre (3145 N. Sheffield Ave. 773-472-0449), 7:30 p.m. Sold out

→ Urban Legends at Park West (322 W. Armitage Ave. 773-929-1322), 8 p.m., $35

THURSDAY
‘Demetri Martin & Special Guests Who Are Also Comedians and Are Friends of His,’ 7:30 p.m.

Demetri Martin

Jokes with sides of ironic drawings, pie charts and guitar-harmonica stylings? Yes, please. Not only will Martin pull out all his normal stops with his multifaceted live show, but he’ll also invite up five of his equally engaging funny friends for sets of their own, including Kristen Schaal, Paul F. Tompkins, Chicagoan Hannibal Buress, David O’Doherty and Kumail Nanjiani.
Where: Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St. 312-462-6300
Tickets: $38.50-$48.50

Also: “Messing With a Friend” with Michael Patrick Thornton at Annoyance Theater (4830 N. Broadway 773-561-4665), 10:30 p.m., $10

FRIDAY
‘Joel McHale & Friends and Acquaintances,’ 7:30 p.m.
Whether you’re into him for his biting commentary on “The Soup,” his awesomely shallow one-liners on “Community” or just those fleeting moments when he’s shirtless on TV, you’ll be plenty pleased with McHale hosting this event.
Where: The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St. 312-462-6300
Tickets: $32.50-$62.50

Loni Love

→ Viva la Risa Comedy Tour Presented by George Lopez at Park West (322 W. Armitage Ave. 773-929-1322), 8 p.m., $35

Also: “Jeffrey Ross Roasts Chicago” at The Vic Theatre (3145 N. Sheffield Ave. 773-472-0449), 7:30 p.m., $35
‘Hot Tub with Kurt and Kristen’ at Lincoln Hall (2424 N. Lincoln Ave. 773-525-2501), 7:30 p.m., $17.50

LOL Lounge at The Red Bar Comedy Club (157 W. Ontario St. 773-387-8412), 10 p.m., $10

Joel McHale

SATURDAY
‘Louis C.K. & Three Special Guests,’ 7:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

Comedy Central’s “Louie” is unlike almost anything on TV right now. Why? It’s basically Louis C.K.’s brilliantly relatable stand-up translated to cable. See what you’ve been missing live and in-person.
Where: The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St. 312-462-6300
Tickets: $38.50-$48.50

Deon Cole

Michael Patrick O’Brien & TJ Jagodowski, Jet Eleveth and Paul Brittain at Annoyance Theatre (4830 N. Broadway 773-561-4665), 8 p.m., $15

Best of the Fest at The Red Bar Comedy Club (157 W. Ontario St. 773-387-8412), Midnight, $15

SUNDAY
‘Steve Martin and Martin Short in a Very Stupid Conversation,’ 7:30 p.m.

The lone show on the last night of the fest, this conversation between two of comedy’s most triumphant legends should be anything but stupid. Short’s appearances making the rounds on late-night talk shows lately have been pleasantly gut-busting, and to get him together with old pal Martin? Gold.
Where: The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St. 312-462-6300
Tickets: $58.50-$102.50

So it seems like you are all about the truth in comedy—things that seem to really mean something to you. Is that what you strive for?
That is the biggest compliment I could possibly get. Without being too pretentious, I want to do comedy that matters. I like to attack injustices, double standards for men and women, porn and sex—things that cause a lot of stress and pain and I think are unfair. It’s really whatever haunts you is what I’ll write about.

What kinds of things haunt you?
Relationship stuff, sex stuff. Like why do men think women are crazy, and why do men get labeled as dumb? I like for people to walk away maybe not to learn something, but to have thought about something from a different angle. I like to be provocative if I can.

Now you’re moving into sitcoms. Is TV something you’ve really looked to do?
Of course. I didn’t want to just do it. I wanted to do it right. I didn’t know if network television would be right for me because I tend to be a little more provocative and edgy than things you see on network TV. But NBC has been amazing. I’m really proud of it and super excited.

I saw some of the clips from “Whitney,” and in one of them you do the “sexy nurse waiting scene” bit from your act. What is that like having one of your jokes played out in front of you?

It’s surreal and so cool because there’s no point in me doing a bad sitcom. I could just keep doing stand-up and do it my way. As a stand-up you have complete control over your material, so going into a situation where people want to control you does not work well.

How is your show going to be different from the rest of the lineup on NBC (“Parks and Recreation,” “Community,” etc.)?
The one thing that America is going to have to get used to is it’s a traditional multicamera sitcom with a live studio audience. As a comedian, I do well performing in front of people who laugh at jokes. So it’s like “Seinfeld” or “Roseanne.” That’s how it’s going to feel.

What’s in the works for your stand-up show at the TBS Just for Laughs Festival?
I’m going to be at the Vic Theatre, and I’ve never been there before. I’m really excited about it. My hour special, “Money Shot,” aired in August, so I have a whole hour of all-new material I’m doing. It’s kind of the next phase of my life, so I’m really excited to come out there and share it with everyone.

Lower Back Pain?

Are You or Someone You Know Suffering From Lower Back Pain?

Northwestern University is seeking volunteers who have lower back pain in order to determine where the pain is recognized in the brain. Participants will also be evaluated to determine why pain goes away for some people while it remains for others. This is a 12 month study consisting of 1 visit at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and 5 MRI scans at Northwestern Memorial Hospital's Olson Pavilion. All visits will take place in downtown Chicago.

Eligible participants must:

- Be 18 years or older
- Have a history of lower back pain which began 4-16 weeks ago with pain radiating into the buttocks or legs
- Be able to undergo a MRI (no pacemakers, metallic implants, or spinal implants)

Please call 312-503-3181 for more information on how you can take part in this research study.

THINGS THAT TURN US ON

FASHION

House of Harlow Sasha sunglasses

$140 at piperlime.com

At first glance, this pair of House of Harlow sunglasses is made up of simple black frames. But look closer and you'll notice the gold tassels dangling from the stems. Or are they earrings? That's the idea, anyway, and they are beyond cool, not to mention chic. JOANNA GUSTAFSON FOR REDEYE

GADGET

Ultimate Ears 4 Pro

$399.99 at ultimateears.com

If you're content with the just-OK earbuds most commuters use, then you might not care to pony up a lot of cash for premium sound. But true audiophiles and musicians should take a look at the Ultimate Ears 4 Pro—the same kind used by many professional musicians, including Kanye West. They are molded and custom-built for individual ears and are well-constructed and durable. The sound is so good, you might as well have a full band playing in your head. RYAN SMITH FOR REDEYE

WEB TV

'Marcy' Watch at lockerz.com

This bizarre mockumentary has followed the exploits of aspiring stuntwoman Marcy Delgado (Ciera Solis) as she tries to make it in Hollywood. The season finale, "Marcy Does a Pool Party," went live last week. Chicago native Jacob Zachar and Scott Michael Foster (both from "Greek") and Jessica Stroup ("90210") guest star. You can watch all eight episodes, which feature Marcy doing all kinds of wrong in front of Brittany Snow, Jay Baruchel, Dave Krumholtz and Jayma Mays, among others. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

TV

'Behind Mansion Walls'

9 p.m. Monday, Investigation Discovery

"An Experiment with Murder" examines the 1924 murder in Chicago of 14-year-old Bobby Franks by wealthy University of Chicago students Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, who believed they could get away with murder and used Franks to test the theory. This series is a bit tawdry in its presentation of these cases, but it's all in good fun. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Gemini

May 21-June 21
You're tying up loose ends on a legal level with Saturn's help. Maybe you'll finally reach a custody agreement with your ex or settle that back payment for rent that your former flame still owes you. Things are looking up.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Mercury is making you talkative and social. You'll walk up to a sexy stranger at a party or put moves on a gorgeous colleague at work. Show off that sexy yet understated sense of comedy. Just avoid off-color jokes.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

A moon opposition could have you growing bored of your current partner. Maybe Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie will break up, and you can date one of them. Then again, do either of them usually date pot-bellied slackers living in their parents' basement?

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

A practical moon is putting you into organizing mode. You'll alphabetize your boyfriend's comic books or arrange your girlfriend's bank statements by month. News flash: None of this behavior is going to make things easier with your honey.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

A relationship feels easy now, thanks to the moon. You're enjoying that "just getting to know you" stage. It's time to enjoy yourself without apologies.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

Someone who liked you before could confess that he or she loves you now. Intense Mercury is increasing the emotional factor in a friendship. You might not be sure how you feel about this person. Be careful—avoid unnecessary heartbreak.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Your friends want you to party. You'd prefer to stay home with a tub of ice cream and some funny videos about bachelors. Neptune is commanding you to break out of this stale energy and do something fun.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Your partner wants you to take charge. Avoid acting too passive. Wimpy is not sexy. Mars says take the initiative and plan your next date.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You could be surrounded by people who have more money or social status than you do. Usually, you don't care about people's net worth or their standing in the community. But Jupiter is showing you that it's sexy to be successful—and you can be too.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You have a lot of intuition, but your psychic senses will be off the charts this week. Neptune is giving you extra strong hunches about work, love and life. Pay attention.

Aries March 21-April 19

If you've done somebody wrong, bad karma will return to you. Saturn is showing you that you can't walk away after you've stomped on someone's heart. You could bump into that person you never wanted to see again.

Taurus April 20-May 20

A funky lunar eclipse has you dreaming about a soul-mate. You've had your eye on someone for a long time, and you still fantasize about getting involved with him. Even though you're a romantic fool, you're awfully cute.

When it came time to for writer-director Mike Mills to cast an actor to play him in the independent film "Beginners"—which is based on Mills' real-life relationship with his father, who came out at age 75—he went with heartthrob Ewan McGregor.

"Of course I knew I'd get [bleep] for that," Mills said at a downtown Chicago hotel in mid-May. "But Ewan was so good, I thought, 'I'll deal with it.' Frankly, most financeable movie stars will be much better-looking than me."

Mills was quick to point out that the film, which hit Chicago theaters Friday, isn't completely autobiographical. That's why he didn't expect the character, Oliver, to look or act like him.

"There's enough fiction where I don't identify with Oliver that much," Mills said. "When I look at [Oliver and his father], I don't think that's me and my dad."

Double the pleasure

Here comes the pregnant bride. Lily Allen wed her sweetheart, Sam Cooper (above), on Saturday in England—and the British pop star's rep confirmed to people.com that the two are expecting a baby. The bride's dress sported long lace sleeves and a fishtail skirt, according to People. REUTERSPHOTO

'Super' sweet

Now that their secret's out, director J.J. Abrams and the people behind the paranormal thriller "Super 8" can relax: The movie outperformed expectations in its opening weekend and easily took the No. 1 spot at the box office with an estimated haul of $37 million. "X Men: First Class" dropped to second, according to studio estimates.

Happily divorcing

Jack White and Karen Elson (left) are getting divorced, but not without a bang. The rocker and his model wife celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary and their impending split with friends Friday in Nashville, Tenn. The official invitation, posted by people.com, promoted the party as "a positive swing bang hum dinger." Gift shopping for an event like that must be a nightmare.

They killed the Tonys!

Neil Patrick Harris led the Tony Awards on Sunday with a song that proclaimed the show was "not just for gays anymore." Apparently, it's about "The Book of Mormon." The satirical musical penned by the "South Park" co-creators claimed nine of Broadway's highest honors. "I want to thank the 'South Park' fans," Trey Parker said, according to thr.com. "If it weren't for you guys, we wouldn't be here."

"Why didn't you tell me my fly was undone?"

—Lil Wayne to the audience during his "Unplugged" performance that aired Sunday on MTV, according to billboard.com. Weezy had performed for an hour before noticing his lazy zipper. GETTYIMAGESFILE PHOTO
